

---

A lot of learning institutions these days providing online education

Contributed by Webmaster
Monday, 23 February 2009
Last Updated Monday, 23 February 2009

By KARAN SHANKER

Back to school and earn a bachelor's degree. But you resent having to do it for years. There are a lot of learning institutions these days providing online education. While some look legit, others sound too good to be true. Getting a fast online college degree sure sounds tempting because it will save you plenty of time. However, there are a few points you might want to consider first.

Literally buying the degree

This might sound as a surprise to you, but a fast online college degree is something which you can obtain even without attending classes or turning in homework.

Such is available from degree mills on the Internet, where you plainly buy the degree. Additional options may include transcript of records or graduation certificate.

How degree mills work

Degree mills are sometimes based on life experiences alone, or on a level of academic work far below what other institutions require from their enrollees. For more details www.profit-pulling-niches.com You can earn such degrees from other legit online learning institutions as well, by attending virtual classes and downloading your lesson modules. But getting a fast online college degree will require you no assignments.

The downside of getting a fast college degree

For most people, literally buying a degree online is simply wrong. A lot of employers will not hesitate to turn down applicants whose credentials were garnered from degree mills on the Internet. A diploma earned from degree mills is not likely to impress potential employers and may just be a complete waste of money. In some parts of the United States alone, it is considered illegal to apply for a job using an unearned college degree.

Some of the things you can do to ensure a fast online college degree program are genuine:

1. Assess the education programs offered by the school and the minimum requirements they seek from the enrollees. Usually these online education programs will require life experiences based on prior learning obtained, usually worth more than two years.
2. Perform a background check of the learning institution. Utilize the Internet to find out everything you can find out about the school -- about their enrollees and their graduates. Read information about the school based on a third party assessment, and not merely from the institution's site alone.

3. Find out about the faculty members; you want to learn only from apt instructors. See how many there are and if they are credible enough to teach.

4. Check out if the school has accreditation from several school commissions. For more details www.workplace-warriors.com And while you're at it, you might want to make sure that they are recognized by potential employers, to prevent difficulties applying for a job.

The key here is evaluating carefully the school of your choice. You can obtain a fast online college degree that is genuine and recognized by several potential employers. Make sure that your time and money is worth what you are getting. With careful planning, you will find an online education program that's best for you.

www.greateducationonline.com

www.greatindustrialguide.com

Online Schools

{mos_sb_discuss:2}